Plaisted Elected Beyond the Shadow of Doubt.

The Republican Scheme to Alter the Returns Proves a Failure.

Special to the SENTINEL by American Union.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—The election of Plaisted as Governor of Maine is no longer questioned by the Republicans. They occupy their time in trying to explain away the so-called telegraphic errors by which the false reports of their majorities were made, the truth is these so-called errors were deliberate attempts to mislead the public as to the result and give them time to alter the returns under cover of pretended uncertainty in the result of the election, this scheme was partially defeated by the vigilance of the Maine Democrats who discovered sufficient discrepancies in time to prevent a transfer of the Governorship to Davis. In one case a discrepancy was detected to the extent of 150 votes which was admitted by the Republicans after its detection. The Republican press and dispatches have made a deliberate misreport of the Greenback convention by attempting to suppress the fact that out of four hundred and sixty-five delegates only fifteen voted against endorsing the union electoral ticket. Hon. Ambrose H. Purdy, who has just returned from the Maine canvass, says the union electoral ticket in Maine will give many more votes than were cast for Plaisted. There are many who voted for Davis for Governor who will vote against Garfield. Ex-Governor Bedle, of New Jersey, addressed a Hancock meeting at Chickering Hall to-night. Political interest is mainly centered upon the preparations for the great Democratic demonstration here, to-morrow night, which will undoubtedly surpass any previous political display in this city. Senator Bayard will be the first speaker in Tammany Hall, and Hon. Abram S. Hewitt, who returned to-day from Europe, will open the meeting in Irving Hall. The Republican supporters of Hancock will hold a mass meeting here on Friday evening. The principal address will be made by Hon. John W. Forney. The enrolled membership of the Hancock Republican clubs, in this State, is now over ten thousand. There are also several clubs in which the pledge does not extend to the support of the Democratic candidates, but members of which refuse to support Garfield and Arthur, on the ground of their unfitness for high public trusts.

Among the visitors at the National Democratic headquarters to-night was William A. Cromwell, one of the candidates for Presidential electors on the Union ticket in Maine. Mr. Cromwell said, in relation to the Greenback convention at Portland, the convention was practically unanimous in its endorsement of the Union electoral ticket. The only opponents of this action were Solon Chase and fourteen others. Eleven were Republicans, who had voted for Davis and who had come into the convention for the purpose of opposing harmony. They were publicly charged with this, and no one of them denied it.

The board of directors of Chase's paper, the Enquirer, disapprove of his action, and the paper will support the Union ticket. In all probability no bolters ticket will be run, if it will not affect the result. The present bolt in the whole State is much weaker, as was the one against Anderson in the First Congressional district. Besides Solon Chase, the only man of any prominence in it was Hilton, who ran for Senator against Brown, in Somerset county, and polled 107 votes. There can be no doubt that the Union electors will carry Maine. The opposition to Garfield in this State is much stronger than even that to Davis. Many Republicans who voted for Davis will vote the Union electoral ticket, and with the impetus of the September victory I am confident that our majority in November will be over 5,000, probably nearly 10,000. Judge George W. Clinton, of Buffalo, New York, son of Dewitt Clinton, and a grandson of the first Governor of this State, said at headquarters to-day: "I have never seen the Democrats of the State, at so early a day in the canvass, better organized than they are this year. They regard Hancock's election as a certainty. Yet, with all their confidence they are working as if the result were in doubt. In my section of the State there are many converts among the Republicans to our side. The Democracy are thoroughly united wherever I have been."

Railroads.
Chicago, Sept. 22.—Mr. McCullough, vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, in conversation with a representative of the Times, yesterday admitted that east bound freight pool had been a little "shaky," but that its stability had been restored in a measure. He stated that certain roads—he would not name them, however—had contracted for the transportation from Chicago of immense quantities of grain and provisions at a rate several cents below tariff. These roads made a "clean breast" of their action, and, as the contracts expire on the 25th inst. and the roads in question are pledged to a maintenance of the schedule rates in the mean time, the Trunk Line Committee concluded to drop the investigation into the charges. Mr. McCullough said that no line a party to the east bound compact cared to assume the responsibility of bringing about a dissolution of the pool. It would go hard with the line that should precipitate any such result. He added that he believed that rates are being honestly maintained at Chicago this time.

The Wabash, St. Louis & Pacific railway, having leased the Missouri, Iowa & Nebraska railroad, gives notice that it has taken possession of the same, and that Mr. William F. Merrill has been appointed general superintendent. The latter will take immediate control of the road, with headquarters at Keokuk, Iowa.

Factory Burned.
Medora, Ind., Sept. 22.—John W. Holmes & Co.'s bone-dust factory was burned to the ground last night. It is supposed it caught from fire left in the furnace, as it was running till 6 o'clock. The loss is estimated at $5,000; no insurance. It was the only factory of the kind in this part of the State.

Driven Wells.
Seymour, Ind., Sept. 22.—Six prominent and wealthy citizens of this (Jackson) county have been sued for royalty on driven wells by the firm of Wm. D. Andrews & Co., of New York. Their trial is to take place before the United States Court, at Indianapolis, on the first Monday in October, 1880.

Matters at the Corning Mines.
Columbus, O., Sept. 22.—Matters at Corning are reported quiet, except that the strikers continue to indulge in threats as to what they will do as opportunity may offer. It is generally conceded that there will be no further serious trouble as long as the troops remain on duty.

"The Star in the West."
Cincinnati, Sept. 22.—By the failure of the Williamson & Cantwell Publishing Company, the weekly religious newspaper, the Star in the West—the organ of the Universalist church—suspends publication. It was established in 1827, and has been published continuously until now. In its columns appeared some of the first published poems of Alice and Phoebe Cary.

LATEST CITY NEWS.

The Commandery meets this evening.

The Fort Wayne College of Medicine opened its preliminary course yesterday, which will last until October, when the regular course will begin.

A little boy named Kimmell was knocked down and stepped on by a horse on South Calhoun street this morning, but was more frightened than hurt.

An attempt was made to tap Mike Fitzgibbon's cash drawer to-day at noon, but the sudden appearance of the writer of this item had the effect of causing the thief to skip out.

The building contractors of this city were unable to bid on the new Library hall, owing to the fact that they are too busy at present, and find it almost impossible to complete what contracts they have on hand.

A young man named Nichols was bounced from the Garfield First Voters' train last night, just this side of Kendallville, for disorderly conduct. There were several others on the train who were also very noisy, but were quieted down by their companions.

The letting of the contract for the building of the new Library hall has been postponed until January, when the contract for the entire work will be awarded. There are several reasons for such postponement, but the principal one is that the time allowed for the completion of the foundation, for which bids were received yesterday, is entirely too short.

REBEL brigadiers and solid South are scare-crows by which Republicans can no longer frighten the people, who know that such devices are only continued to prolong corruption and fraud, and for continuing unworthy and incompetent men in office. The people demand a change of administration, a reform of abuses, and will not be content till that change is brought about. It is believed that the time has come for such change. The election in Maine, at which more than eight thousand Republicans voted the Democratic ticket, proves the assertion made, and political leaders should take warning and heed the demands of the people. Manipulating the returns of the election in Maine by Republicans, so that it will require an official canvass to tell who is elected Governor, which cannot take place till January, so that Democrats cannot take advantage of the result of the election, will not save the party that controls the administration. A change is demanded, a reform of abuses, and an end of sectional strife must be had, which will be brought about by the election of General Hancock to the Presidency.

REPUBLICANS in our city claim that there is quite a number of persons here, who voted for Tilden, who will not vote for Hancock. But they have failed, thus far, to produce the names. There are no such voters, and the vote in Allen county will show the fact. Democrats were never more united, and will poll a much larger solid vote for the ticket at the coming election than ever before.

The Secret of Good Servants.

The real secret of good servants and a peaceful household lies in good government. Every woman thinks she can keep house and manage servants, and it is the greatest mistake possible. Men are born generals to command armies, as men are born disciplinarians; one man will keep a hundred boys as quiet as mice, and as perfectly under control as if moved by machinery, where another, perhaps of far higher mental endowments, is powerless amongst them. Servants need not be governed, and to feel that they are governed. A good mistress lets it be felt that she has a steady hand on the reins and means to keep hold. A horse knows at once if a feeble or hesitating hand is driving him, and takes liberties accordingly. A child understands very quickly if you mean "No" when you say it, or worth while to worry a little longer. The mistress who is very indulgent to her servants, or very hasty one minute and kind the next, may be liked by them, but rarely respected; whilst the mistress who rules her servants, who knows every detail of the household management, and whom they can neither swindle or impose upon, will always be respected, even though she may not be liked. A good servant, like a good soldier, never dreams of rebelling against the order and discipline of a well-arranged house. There will always be faults on both sides as long as human nature exists in its present imperfect state, but it is not fair to blame the maid too heavily for faults that often arise from the mistress not possessing the gift of governing, which is as much a gift as any other talent. An eccentric literary lady friend of mine, being utterly unable to get on with her servants, hit on the original idea of having relays of outsiders, each one to perform a particular piece of work and depart, so that there should be no gossiping, or conspiring, or consumption of food. Thus a woman came at 7, whose sole business it was to clean grates and light fires; another at 8 (when the first left), to sweep and dust, etc.; a third at 9, to cook breakfast; a man arrived in the afternoon for no other purpose than to open the door to visitors, and a woman to get afternoon tea. Everything was most elaborately planned (on paper), and peace and comfort were the result. As Charles Reade said of Republicanism, it was perfect on paper, its only fault being that it was utterly impracticable. Unfortunately it so happened that the first comer was late, and threw the whole machinery out for the day; before her share was finished No. 2 would arrive, and gossip begin; and No. 1, being late, required breakfast, at which No. 2, and sometimes No. 3, would join. Or else it happened that one of the relay failed altogether, and the mistress would call humbly on some friend about afternoon tea time, or even be reduced to opening the door to her visitors.

The Latest Adulteration.
The question of oleomargarine, and the incidents connected with its discussion, hardly disappears from sight when information is received of an adulteration of butter, instead of the manufacture of the article from refuse grease, that must of necessity be productive of injury to the human economy. The adulteration consists of mixing with the product of a cow's milk a quantity of pulverized soapstone. It is well known that soapstone is tasteless, or nearly so, and when added to, and thoroughly mixed in the butter, it is not noticed by the person eating the compound. The adulterating material is added because of its extreme cheapness, costing but one cent a pound, and its increasing the weight of the article to be sold. It is estimated by a large dealer in New York that in some packages of Western butter received the soapstone made up one-seventh of the weight, so that the customer was swindled to the extent of one-seventh of the money paid for the article. What with impure milk, adulterated and manufactured butter, adulterated sugar and tea, and adulterations practiced in other articles of household consumption, it becomes somewhat remarkable that the health of the people at large is as good as it is. Were it possible to reach and punish the persons who work injury by these adulterations, it would be a great benefit, and would be a matter of justice to the persons whose health is injured by the frauds practiced upon them by unscrupulous manufacturers and dealers.

THE total vote for President in 1876 was 8,111,136—an increase over that of 1872 of 1,979,985; and it is expected that the vote this year will equal 2,500,000.

A good candidate for any office is essential, and such a candidate the Democrats have in Frank Cosgrove for sheriff. His record is clear and the people will elect him.

THE St. Louis Republican says: The officeholders' influence in a presidential election is equal to about half a million votes. That is about the extent of the Republican minority.

THE charges of forgery and perjury in the recent Maine election come with ill grace from Mr. Blaine when it is taken into account that the election was carried by thousands of Republicans voting with the Democrats to produce the result.

STATE treasurer, Wm. Fleming, is still gaining friends in this part of the State, and his re-election is as sure as the sun will rise to-morrow morning. He makes an exceedingly good official and hundreds of Republicans who know him and his superior qualifications for the office, will vote for him.

ABOUT as mournful appearing set of fellows as can be found is the post-office gang in this city, who had supposed that they had life leases of their positions; but now see in the certain election of General Hancock to the Presidency their hopes blasted and their doom sealed. Such is life.

OUR foreign born fellow citizens are not in favor of the policy of the Republican party, that the United States should be a nation with a big "N," a monarchy such as they have left to seek homes in a land of freedom and equal right, and will vote with the party that favors the largest liberty to the greatest number, the Democratic party.

ON Saturday night last the Republican clubs in Pittsburgh made it a point to clean out several German beer saloons simply because the proprietors were Democrats and had announced their intention to vote for Hancock for the presidency, and it is said that the Garfield clubs in our city contemplate similar proceedings against the beer saloons kept by certain of our German fellow citizens in this city. Such conduct is disgraceful in any city and will be guarded against by our best citizens, and the guilty parties will be punished as the law provides.

"I am going to set this lance a little deeper; we are going to try to see if we can't bring blood."—Anonymous.

The aggregate ordinary expenses of the government, exclusive of interest on the public debt, during the nineteen years of Republican Administration, amount to the grand total of $5,800,000,000—a sum not readily grasped in figures, so we write it in words: Five billions and eight hundred millions of dollars! as against $1,600,000,000—one billion and six hundred millions—of the preceding seventy years of thirteen Democratic and Whig Administration, all put together. In the last nineteen years, the Republican party has spent for ordinary expenses, $4,200,000,000 more than all other parties put together, in all the preceding years of our national existence.

While this is true of the nineteen years of Republican rule, in the aggregate, their average civil and miscellaneous expenditures, exclusive of interest on the public debt, has been in round numbers, $52,000,000 a year. In the nineteen years next preceding, they were less than $17,000,000 annually. This is a fair showing of the difference between Republican and Democratic ideas and practices in the administration of the government.

But, say the Republicans, "don't change the control by putting us out and putting Hancock and the solid south in, lest they play the very mischief in the way of reckless extravagance—" and by this bugaboo they hope to so frighten people that they themselves may keep control of the administration as a sort of national Republican party preserve, in which none may hunt and forage but themselves. Could "a solid south," even unchecked by the leadership of Hancock, and led by its own "brigadiers" have been more reckless and extravagant? The fact is that since the "brigadiers" got into Congress the Republican lobby has disappeared from its purlieus and the current expenses of the government have been greatly reduced.

Take one other instance: In the nineteen years of Republican control, the aggregate cost of the Indian bureau has been $97,000,000; for the preceding nineteen years, under Democratic and Whig control, its aggregate cost was only $44,000,000.

These startling figures are taken from, and warranted by official reports made by Republicans. Is it not time for a change? If not, when will it be time for it? The only pretense of excuse for such enormous waste, is that the Republican party has been setting itself up as a sort of substitute for Providence, in making the sun shine and the rains and dews fall, and that, of course, it took a vast amount of money to do it; but that, however costly, it has proved a wise investment of the money. There is reason to think, however, that a vast majority of those whose money has been squandered in this way think the sun did not shine an hour the more, nor was there a drop the more, either of dew or rain, on account of it, and that after all, the wiser and more pious way would have been to have saved the money and trusted Providence to work out its own designs in its own more beneficent, more effectual and far less expensive ways.

SOL BASH, it seems, is no longer the feeble old Gazette candidate for Sheriff, that concern having announced that it is not for Bash in particular, but for the whole ticket. Mr. Bash's former friends deserted him by scores, and he will probably cause his name to be taken from the ticket before the election takes place. There is no possible chance that he can be elected.

THE recent Republican campaign in Maine was a "bloody shirt" and money campaign—such as Republicans have organized in Indiana; but which will result more disastrously to that party of fraud and corruption than in the Pine Tree State. The fraud issue is before the people and they will fight it out on that line if it takes all the fall.

THE reproduction of Garfield's record while in Congress, brought to light by Republicans, it would seem, should be sufficient to defeat him. Democrats make no war upon him, simply producing that record, a record all stained with fraud and corruption, one that no honest man should have, and one that no honest man can point to with any degree of satisfaction or pride.

On the 20th of August, 1793, at a meeting of the Cabinet, when General Washington was President, Alexander Hamilton, a member of that Cabinet, when the question came up about the Republic of France, said: "We were not called on to declare that the cause of France was that of liberty; that he had at first been with them, with all his heart, but that he had long since left them." And this was said by Hamilton when this country was at war with England, our national enemy. Garfield, the Republican candidate for the Presidency; R. S. Taylor, the Republican candidate in this district for Congress, and lesser lights in the party point to Alexander Hamilton as the greatest statesman this country has produced, and then ask Frenchmen and lovers of France here to vote the Republican ticket. Is consistency a jewel with men?

It appears, that the "one hundred business men" of Columbus, Ohio, representing "six millions of capital," who, upon the receipt of the election news from Maine, held a business men's meeting, were Federal and State officeholders, penitentiary and hospital officials appointed by Governor Foster, with shoddyites of the celebrated Columbus cotton ring, and men who have been promised offices or positions by John Sherman and General Garfield, and was of no political significance whatever, further than showing great alarm at the prospect of a certain defeat of the Garfield and Arthur ticket in the November election.

JUDGE R. S. TAYLOR, the Republican candidate for Congress in this district is losing friends every day. His advocacy of a nation with a big "N," a strong centralized government, a monarchy, does not go down with the people and particularly with those of our fellow citizens of foreign birth who have come to this country to get clear of the oppression they suffered while living under a monarchy. He had better follow the advice of some of his best friends in the Republican party, withdraw from the canvass and save an overwhelming defeat.

WHILE Democrats have reduced all other expenditures by the general government, they have been far more liberal to the soldiers than Republicans were when they had a majority in Congress, in the distribution of pension money. In 1876 there was paid out to Union soldiers and their families in pensions, $28,257,000; in 1879 there was paid out $35,121,000, and in 1880, $56,777,000.

THE little unpleasantness in the Republican party in this city continues. Homer Hartman has been only partly whipped into the traces and has consented to make two or three speeches in log school houses during the campaign. Andy Purman is not as belligerent. Cy Fike is not quite so boisterous; while Col. Robertson still has the sulks, and the postoffice gang are playing a lone hand.

HON. FRANKLIN LANDERS has effectually bottled the Porter, the kid glove Republican candidate for Governor, and nothing further will be heard from him either before or after the election. Republicans now regret that they did not nominate General Streight. Porter has proved a failure on the stump and in his discussion with Mr. Landers, and will fail to be elected.

GENERAL GARFIELD's motives while he was a member of Congress will not bear investigation, nor will his acts in that body bear close scrutiny. He voted against extending the sympathy of the Government to the suffering and oppressed Irish, and against pensioning the veteran survivors of the Mexican war. Can Irishmen or soldiers consistently vote for such a man for the Presidency?

IN Pittsburgh the Republican clubs are distinguished for rioting and lawlessness; and turn out whenever the Democrats have meetings to create disturbances. The authorities in that city have taken notice of the disgraceful conduct of the Garfield clubs, and are taking measures to suppress the rioters.

THE kid-glove Porter failed to keep up his end of the joint discussion with Franklin Landers, the Democratic candidate for Governor, and has not opened his mouth about the thirteen discussions yet to be had.

TO YOUNG MEN. A Sure Cure.

The awful effect of early vice, which brings organic weakness, destroying both mind and body, with all its dreadful ills, PERMANENTLY CURED. The results before consumption sets in are palpation of the heart, timidity, trembling, nervous discharges, dyspepsia, etc., with those sad conditions of mind so much to be feared, brain-failure, loss of ideas, sadness of spirit, ugly imagining, dislike in social life and brooding melancholy. Married men, or those entering on that happy life, aware of physical debility, excitability of the nervous organic diminution, or other irregularities, quickly assisted.

A quick cure guaranteed. NO MINERAL USED.

Young people losing their health, spending time with pretending quacks and unsuitable treatment, forcing diseases into their bodies with deadly poisons, causing fatal disorders to the head, throat, nose, liver and lungs, stomach and bowels, speedily cured. No false modesty should prevent them calling at once.

A MEDICINE WITHOUT A RIVAL

THE records of Congressional proceedings of March 8, 1867, show that James A. Garfield, the Republican candidate for President, gave his vote against a resolution extending the sympathy of the United States to the suffering poor of Ireland, showing clearly his Know-Nothing proclivities and hatred of our foreign-born citizens. And yet he desires their vote to elect him to the highest office in the gift of the people.

THE heads of the Departments at Washington have given all clerks, supernumeraries and barnacles, leave of absence to go home to vote the Republican ticket, while their pay is to be continued without reduction, resulting in a loss to the United States Treasury of hundreds of thousands of dollars; and this is called retrenchment and reform by Republicans.

GENERAL WEAVER is still telegraphing to Gen. Plaisted, of Maine, congratulating him on his probable election, and stating his election was no victory for the Democrats. Weaver is undoubtedly running his part of the campaign in the interest of Republicans on terms probably agreed upon; and has as much cheek as generally falls to the lot of one man.

THE Indianapolis Sentinel suggests that it is still time to withdraw Garfield and Porter from the ticket and substitute Grant and Straight, which some of the more prominent leaders in the Republican party have advised, as there is no chance of the election of the former.

A CONGRESSIONAL committee will investigate Senator Blaine, who is charged with furnishing money to bribe voters at the recent election in Maine, which charge, it is said can be proved truthful.

THE feeble old Gazette still permits that grammar demolisher and common law expounder to scribble for the editorial side of that concern. How long, oh Lord, how long?

This is the way John V. Farwell, "the merchant prince of Chicago," puts it at a political meeting in one of the churches of that city: "They (the Democrats) would colonize 25,000 to 30,000 men in Indiana, some of them coming from Virginia, others from Illinois. If they did this, he did not know any other way to help it than to fight the devil with fire—to go down to Indiana and vote for Republicans. The Republicans should meet them with their own arms, and beat them. This might seem strange doctrine to teach, but it was the correct one under the circumstances, because it really was the only one by which the nation could be saved from the threatened disaster. Meet them at the ballot-box with their own tricks, and, if this failed, take up the arms which had been laid by, and reassert the principles without which the government of the nation can not be honorably or successfully carried on."

What is the matter with this man? Is he a natural born fool or has he simply gone crazy over the result of the Maine election, and the uniform prognostics of Democratic success? Some man with an eye to business might cage him and make a dime museum of him. "A great merchant prince" who makes also "a ass" of himself, might be relied upon to draw—if not in Chicago where people are used to him—at least where such fools are scarce. The rare combination of qualities would attract by its novelty.

But after all there seems to be a method in this fool's madness. He is no ordinary "Hoodlum" or "Sand Lot politician," but a representative Republican of a large and influential class—perhaps the most so in the party—and his utterances are therefore to be regarded as semi-official. When such men talk in this way it may be accepted as the preliminary step in the villainies they foreshadow.

The counter check for it is so obvious that it needs not to be mentioned and we hope the Democratic press of the State will be silent on that point. Such language is designed to provoke angry discussion and then makethat the ground for military supervision of the election. Let us baffle their scheme by the jeers it deserves, and rely upon the good nature of a brave people for meeting it with courage and firmness when the time for action comes.

SPLENDID SPEECHES.
Those Made by Col. Vilas and Hon. J. P. Irish at the Circuit Court Room Last Night.
Last evening the Circuit court room was filled to repletion with a crowd composed of ladies and gentlemen who came out for the purpose of hearing the situation discussed by those two eminent exponents of democratic doctrine, Hon. J. P. Irish and Col. W. F. Vilas, the former of Iowa, the latter of Wisconsin. The distinguished gentlemen were escorted by the First Voters club to the court house and when they had been conducted to seats inside the enclosure the First Voters marched to the gallery and when quiet had been restored the Hon. J. P. Irish was introduced and spoke in an effective and thrilling manner, he has one happy faculty about him which completely captivated his hearers—it is that grim humor, which abounded throughout his entire speech. He was followed by Col. Vilas, who slashed right and left at the party of corruption and was frequently interrupted with loud applause. Space prohibits us from giving any detailed account of the speeches, but let it suffice to say that they were masterly efforts.

A Yankee Girl is Lucky.
In the secluded inland town of Gardner, Worcester county, Mass., a happy couple, Russell Whitney and wife, have enjoyed all the pleasures that a well spent life of toil insures. With a slight surplus Mrs. Whitney invested one dollar by sending by mail to the Louisiana State Lottery Company prior to the August drawing, in the name of their little three-year-old girl, Grace Whitney, addressed to M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La. (or it would have had the same effect if addressed to same person, 319 Broadway, New York City), and now that young lady's future is secured as far as worldly good is concerned, for her ticket drew one-half the capital prize of $30,000. Who will be the next fortunate party to invest in the Grand Monthly Distribution on Oct. 12th, at New Orleans, La. d&w
